Based on the novel by Bill Brittain. When 13 year old Quentin Stowe saves a leprechaun from a well, he's granted three wishes. In his excitement, he wastes his first two wishes before getting down to business. With his final wish, he asks for all the money in the World--thereby putting the economy of every Nation at a standstill. Even the President of the U.S. urges Quentin to do something. Finding that he can't even give the money away let alone spend it, he gains new-found appreciation for the things in life money can't buy, and sets out to find a way to break the magic spell.

Angry Young Man: A Drug Tragedy

313740,VH VHS videocassette
24 min IJH 1999 AIMS
Angry Young Man is a video that takes a harsh look at the realities of drug abuse through the eyes of Andrew Clark. Andrew, a young man from a middle-class family, re-enacts for the audience how the tried marijuana one day after school. Soon he was smoking marijuana daily and eventually moved on to cocaine; his violent conflicts with family members alerted his parents to the seriousness of his problems. Finally, Andrew was arrested after an all-night robbery spree. counselor John Hrick informs the audience that mothers and fathers of addicted teens often feel overwhelming guilt, frustration, and helplessness when they discover they have an addicted child. He also firmly states how imperative it is that parents emphasize the pain addiction causes not only for a teen but for his whole family. What started as a seemingly innocent after-school adventure for Andrew led to an addiction and a criminal record, along with indescribable heartache for his family. Angry Young Man is a wake up call to all teens and parents about the harsh realities of drug addiction. Discussion Guide Included.

The reality of what can happen under the influence of alcohol is dramatically and poignantly shown in this program about a 17-year-old boy killed in an auto accident. Based on a famous letter to newspaper columnist Ann Landers, the story begins with the boy's justifiable pride in his new car-paid for with his own earnings. However, his response to peer pressure turns celebration in tragedy, and fatal errors of judgement. When his friend pours vodka into their drinks, the boy is too embarrassed to refuse. He becomes intoxicated, and decides to show off in his new car. A few minutes later he is dead. Viewing his funeral and the suffering his death has caused his parents and friends, the boy tries unsuccessfully to bargain with God for one more chance. Children are given a first-hand look at front-line firefighters, dispatchers, and rescue and emergency personnel in this exciting yet informational presentation. The general public has little chance to see what happens behind the camouflage of smoke and flames on the fireground, but in this program viewers are taken into actual fires to see firefighters at work. The realism of these scenes teaches kids the importance of education and teamwork. As a learning tool, the program provides children with important fire safety information that will help them stay safe in a fire emergency at home. Techniques presented include: Calling 911—but only for emergencies; Stop, Drop, Roll; Smoke rises, so stay low and crawl; Plan two ways out in case one exit is blocked; Install smoke detectors in every bedroom; and never re-enter a burning building. As well as developing a strong awareness of fire danger, viewers will also learn about firefighters' daily routines, the importance of dispatchers, and the critical role emergency medical personnel play in fire and rescue incidents. ### Steroids: Bulking Up Can Kill

313754,VH VHS videocassette
15 min JH 1998 AIMS
For all athletes, the pressure to perform can be tremendous. In sports like football, bigger players are often considered the most valuable. Many athletes work hard to build muscles. Some, unwisely, use anabolic steroids to achieve the desired results. This insightful program supports Health and Life Skill units on alcohol and drug education, substance abuse, decision-making skills and personal health as it details the consequences of steroid use. Common side effects include hair loss, acne, high blood pressure, increased cholesterol, and cardiovascular disease. Emotionally, users can become paranoid, depressed, and suffer from uncontrollable anger. The program profiles the experiences of Dan Barton, who dreamed of a career in football but never made it due to an obsession with steroids, and Curt Marsh, an ex-NFL football star whose steroid use had devastating consequences—the loss of his career and, tragically, the amputation of his right foot and ankle. Viewers also hear from a high school football team whose hard work transformed them from losers into football stars. Accused of using steroids, these players all passed drug tests—proving that success can be achieved through efforts and determination, without the false promise of anabolic steroids. ### Stolen Identity: Crime of the Millennium

313755,VH VHS videocassette
28 min H 1999 AIMS
When one person literally takes over the identity of another person; when one person assumes the identity of another by taking their name and personal information to steal money and credit cards or to commit serious crimes. Stolen identity is one of the fastest growing crimes in the country, partly because it's so easy to perpetrate. It can happen to anyone and at anytime. All a person needs to steal someone's identity is a driver's license or social security card. This program identifies and explains the means by which a person's identity can be stolen—credit repair, shoulder surfing, account takeover, dumpster diving, social engineering or a dishonest employee—and gives some of the reasons why this type of crime occurs. Victims of stolen identity share their stories with viewers, describing how difficult it is to regain your identity once it's been taken. Precautions are outlined to help viewers avoid becoming a victim of stolen identity, including shredding all personal documents and never freely giving out your social security number, and ways to repair damage done by identity thieves are described. 59 min JH 2001 AIMS
The Teen files Series - Surviving High School is a searing exploration of the stress that high school kids experience as they try to fit in and be accepted by their peers. Eleven teens struggling to "fit in" exemplify the ever-growing problems of isolation, extreme dieting, steroid use, depression, and suicidal thoughts. An additional inspiration is Keena Turner, a former San Francisco 49er, who relates how he became a Super Bowl champion without the use of steroids; Magali Amadei, a former model, recounts her painful battle with an eating disorder. Students are encouraged to define what it takes to "survive" on a campus, as these eleven teens open up to explore the issue, and their own lives, with each other. The challenge: to find solutions to the bullying, harassment, and exclusion that have been tearing their school apart. The program motivates teens to face the truth about modern-day pressures, and make positive changes in how they perceive themselves and how they treat others. A candid, real-world adjunct for Health, Guidance and Life Skills units, the program supports lessons on stress management, self-esteem, social skills, resisting peer pressure, behavioral choices and consequences, conflict resolution, safety and injury prevention, eating disorders, alcohol and drug education, suicide prevention, youth-at-risk, and family life issues. More than half of all teenagers have had sex before the age of 18. Every 10 seconds in America, another teenager contacts a sexually transmitted disease, and over 3,000 teens become pregnant each day. Parents and teens are often too uncomfortable to discuss the risks associated with sex. This program supports Health & Guidance, Sex Education, Family Life, and Life Skill units on human growth and development, human sexuality and reproduction, behavioral choices, and STDs. With 20/20 clarity, it focuses on the realities of having sex too young, including unwanted pregnancies and STDs. Students' understanding of the relationship between unsafe behaviors and personal health is reinforced through real-world examples of several sexually active teenagers. Two teens discuss the struggles of becoming parents at such a young age, while another young couple faces the possibility that they could be pregnant. A group of teens tour a microbiology lab, where hundreds of STD cases are diagnosed each year, and participate in a "mock AIDS test." Lisa, a 33-year-old woman with full-blown AIDS, shares her story. An Arnold Shapiro production. Hosted by Leeza Gibbons.

This engaging and informative program takes an inside look at how advertising companies often encourage unhealthy behavior and attitudes. The ongoing theme of this program is:What's the Message? Is it true? Is it good for me and you? A group of teens is invited to give their initial reactions to the advertising campaign of new products, including cereal, beer and tobacco. By applying the above theme to several different scenarios, the teens begin to understand the tactics that advertisers use to encourage them to drink, smoke or behave in a violent manner.
