

Training Paraprofessional and the Teachers That Work with Them

315088,VH VHS videocassette
66 min PROF 2004 VIDEO JOURN
Without proper training, both the teacher and paraprofessional are often left to a classroom that does not function well. This powerful training program will educate both teachers and paraprofessionals how to Build partnership in the classroom by identifying roles and responsibilities. Define, 'What not to do.' Establish a task analysis for both the teacher and paraprofessional. Clarify expectations and targets through verbal and non-verbal communication. Promote professionalism with training in collaboration, instruction, and behavior management Learn about effective teacher supervision. See how evaluation is a form of continuous learning for the paraprofessional. Establish and prioritize benchmarks in data collection, analysis, quality of praise, level of questioning, and other factors unique to the classroom setting.

Professional development–Staff Development