

1914-1919 shell shock

10001,ER

JA 1999 Films for the Humanities & Sciences

Commentary: John Keegan, Jay Winter, Geoffrey Perrett.

The century: decades of change Series - The psychological damage inflicted by the bombardments of World War I was called shell shock, a term that aptly described the feelings of the World War I world. This program illustrates America's reluctant emergence as a world power and analyzes the social impact of the wholesale loss of life, of husbands and fathers and of sacred ideals such as honor, patriotism and glory that sprang from "the war to end all wars."

The century: decades of change

For descriptions see individual titles:

1914-1919 shell shock